Letter from our President

Dear Friends,

Moms Against Poverty, also known as MAP, came to existence 12 years ago after a promise was made in Iran to a lovely young orphaned girl named Sepideh. I met her when adopting my elder daughter at a state-run orphanage in Tehran. I still so vividly recall her piercing, yet despondent eyes as she looked up at me and asked with such might, "WHY NOT ME?" That sent a shudder through my body and a dagger through my heart. I could not fathom such strength coming from a girl of her age and situation. That moment was etched in my heart forever.

That brief encounter with Sepideh was the catalyst for MAP. It was then and there that I made an unspoken promise to her that while I could not adopt her, I would ensure that Sepideh and other orphaned, neglected, or abandoned children like her, so desperate for love and care would not be forgotten. Every child, regardless of ethnicity, race, class, religion, or geography, deserves a happy childhood and at the least the opportunity to reach their fullest potential!

I want to believe that Sepideh knows in the depth of her heart that she has not left me since the day she captivated me with her sorrow and innocence, but also her courage. MAP would not be in existence today, if not for her. And although this journey has had its share of challenges and hurdles, what we have accomplished together in the past 12 years is nothing short of a dream come true.

MAP stands today as a global network of dedicated individuals who actively work to create opportunities for children around the world. To think that MAP has impacted the lives of 800,000 children around the world takes my breath away.

We have successfully developed and implemented programs which are holistically minded and have, consequently, aided thousands of impoverished children transnationally. Between our comprehensive education, orphan care, hunger relief, and health and wellbeing programs, we have provided children with tools to help them move beyond their circumstances.

For the execution of culturally sensitive and appropriate educational/vocational training programs, we have taken great strides enlisting the guidance of local community leaders and elders. Similarly, we have effectively learned to carry out our objectives in the various countries we serve, handling roadblocks that arise through effective communication, building alliances, and the love of children as our compass to keep our mission alive.

Additionally, we have worked hard to build a community of like-minded donors and volunteers from all walks of life. Our unique fundraising events serve as an opportunity to bring the community together, not only to raise funds, but also to celebrate our community's diversity, our work, and our children's lives. We have done all this with diligent financial stewardship, ensuring that our processes and procedures are viable and dependable.

In 2020, my commitment to you is that we will use our accomplishments as models to continue to strengthen and expand our global impact, as there are still countless children waiting for our love and support.

All of this is made possible thanks to the kindness and loyalty of our partners in philanthropy, sponsors, donors, and volunteers. We could not have done any of this without you. I look forward to continuing our work, in our global village, together.

With my deepest gratitude and love,

Delfarib Fanaie

OUR PHILOSOPHY

We believe in empowering underprivileged children while respecting their individuality and maintaining their dignity and self-esteem. Positive change and healing are not only possible, but probable, when these children are treated with compassion and provided guidance and support.

By empowering individuals and communities, we create a lasting impact and forge a path toward ending the cycle of generational poverty.

OUR MISSION AND WORK

Moms Against Poverty (MAP) is a global nonprofit organization with the mission to nurture and educate underprivileged children to their fullest potential, so that one day, they can contribute and lead within their own communities and break the cycle of poverty. Our work is holistically minded, advancing communities one program at a time toward well-being and self-sufficiency.

First, we address children's basic needs, such as food, shelter, and healthcare. Then, using education and vocational programs, we provide them with the tools and environment they need to thrive and become successful members of their community and the world at large.

Our programs include: Education, Hunger Relief & Basic Provisions, Health, and Orphan Care.

OUR FOUNDING STORY

In 1999, Delfarib Fanaie and her husband, Farshid Samsami, traveled to their home country of Iran, with the intent of adopting a child. Their travels took them to various orphan care centers in Tehran, where they witnessed first-hand the needs of many children.

In 2006, while adopting her oldest child, Delfarib Fanaie met a young girl by the name of Sepideh who asked her, “why can’t you take me with you?” Stirred by this experience, with no way to respond to this sweet girl, Delfarib knew her life would never be the same. She became determined to inspire friends, family, and co-workers to help impoverished children.

In 2008, Delfarib’s friends, touched and inspired by Sepideh’s story, answered Delfarib’s call to action, and together they founded a volunteer-based non-profit charitable organization. Subsequently, MAP launched its mission and programs with a holistic approach toward ending childhood poverty, guided by the principles and philosophy of Ladan Judge. Aligned with Delfarib’s vision, together they breathed life into this dream.

Since then, thanks to the dedication and hard work of many individuals, MAP has become a community of like-minded individuals spanning the globe with the belief that every act of kindness, no matter how small, can radically change the life of a child and generations to come.

She became determined to inspire friends, family and co-workers to join the movement to end childhood poverty.

OUR APPROACH

PAVING THE PATH TO PROSPERITY

Poverty is a complex socio-economic issue which afflicts people all over the world. It spans generations and is rooted in income disparity, lack of opportunity, and limited access to essential services.

MAP has a holistically minded approach towards breaking the cycle of multi-generational poverty. First, we address the children's basic needs, such as food, shelter, and healthcare. Then, through educational and vocational programs, we provide them with the tools and environment they need to thrive and be able to serve their families and communities as adults. Thus, they break out of the vicious cycle of poverty.

OUR APPROACH

I Will Definitely Become A Doctor

"The sky is blue, and the wind is blowing, as white clouds gently float above. The crunching sound of the snow beneath people's steps resembles the sound of a whimper. Everyone has gathered to learn about the new school and when it would open. I rapidly skipped my way past the crowd to reach the very front. This way, I could hear with my very own ears that the school would be built in the next year. I wanted to tell my dad the news. I wanted to tell him that I could now go to high school. I wanted to tell him that I wouldn't have to drop out of school, like my sister Giana, because there wasn't a high school nearby. Oh no, not me! I must tell my dad that the high school would be built so close and right down the street near Uncle Akbar's shop, near the bakery, near Aunt Roghieh's house.

Finally, they announced that the high school would be built by next August. They said that by next September we could begin our studies. I didn't hear the rest of the speech, as I was already running back home with my slippers in hand. I ran quickly up the hill of our village, breathless, yet focused on arriving home amidst the bone-chilling air that kept up with me every step of the way. My feet became numb, and it became increasingly difficult to make the journey up the hill. I could no longer feel my feet as they had lost themselves in the icy burn that enveloped my every step.

As I climbed, I kept returning to thoughts of poor Giana. Oh, how bad I felt for her. She adored school just as I did, but she had to drop out of school eventually because unfortunately, the only girls high school at the time was four villages away, too far away for her to attend. If the school was only one village away, Giana would have definitely gone to school. Surely, she would have, but you see, the distance was too far away for a young girl, too unsafe! When Giana was discussing this with my Dad, I lost all hope of becoming a doctor. How could I be a doctor if I couldn't even attend high school?

Without schooling, becoming a doctor would remain a dream, only alive in the confines of my mind. I would daydream about it while milking the animals in our stable...I would escape into my thoughts and imagine a world where I could be a doctor in my humble village. No more a dream. Now, School will be close to home. As I was running up the hill, I saw our home, which was one of three clay cottages set side by side. I looked out into the distance and focused my eyes on the image in front of me: our home and those of my two uncles. With this image etched in my brain, "DAD, DAD!" I cried out. "The high school will be built by next year."

As I stood in the echo of my voice, dad was standing by the stable, unable to hear my voice. I jumped towards him, breathless yet again, uttering the news. "High School will open next year...I can go to school...I can become a doctor."

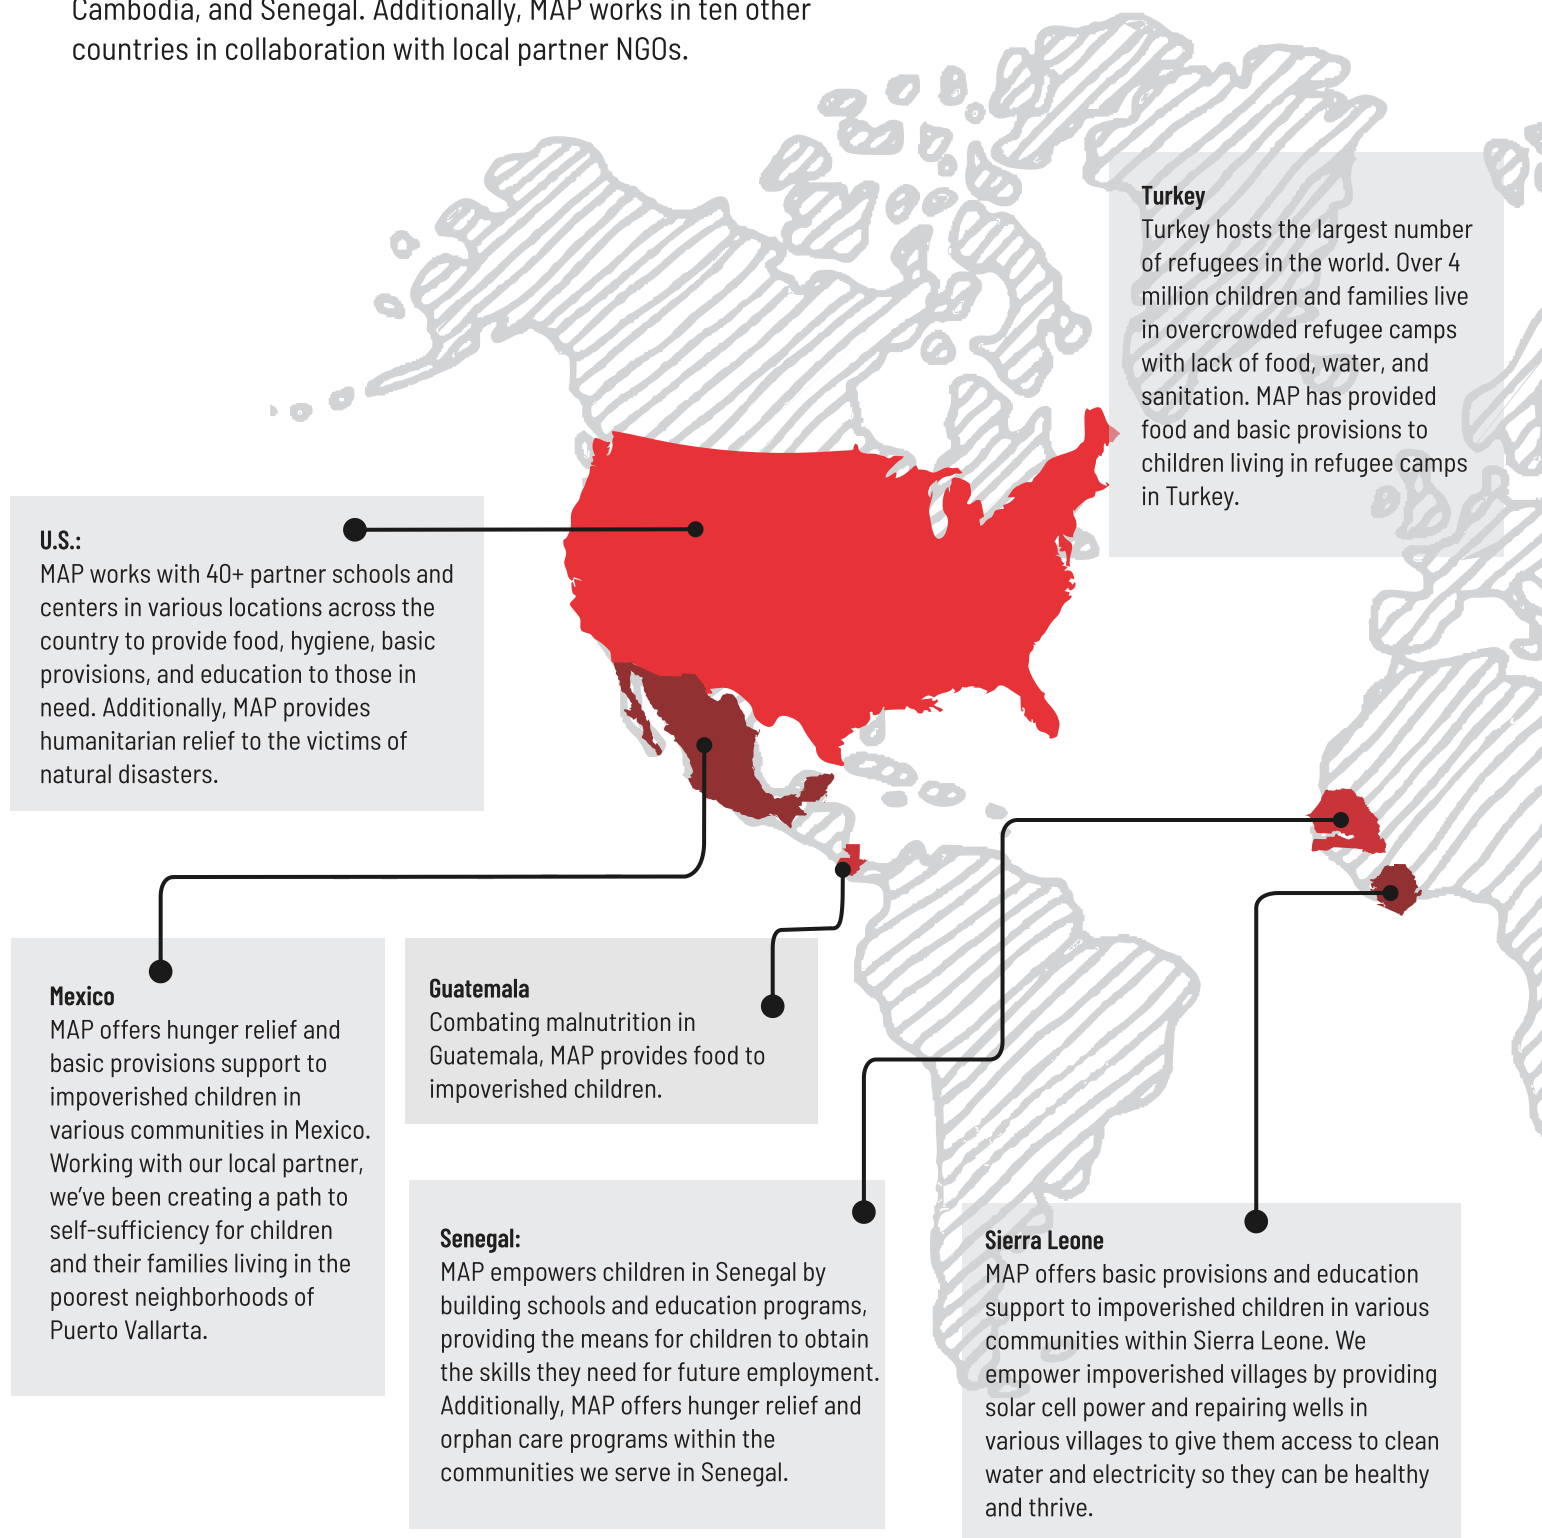

Gianna came out of the stable with a bucket of milk in hand and she passed right by me, without even the slightest glance or a word, as if I wasn't there. I felt so bad for her, my heart broke for Gianna. Dad didn't say a word, but I knew that he would allow me to attend the new school. This was more than enough for me. Drained and with frozen feet, I dragged myself inside.

My deep joy was instantly replaced by the sorrow I felt for Giana. How can I be happy and celebrate when Giana had been deprived of school? I no longer spoke a word about the news of the new high school being built in my village. Rather, I kept all of my abundant delight and happiness to myself while waiting for school to open. School would be my place to smile and be joyful.

This year, as I began my schooling in the most beautiful high school in all of Kurdistan, I smiled a growing smile. Now, I will most definitely become a doctor".....
